HARD ON THE CULTURED NEGRO

DR. FELIX ADLER PICTURES HIS SOCIAL ISOLATION.

But Cut Off From Both Races He Should Regard Himself as a Missionary to Underdeveloped Whites—A Talk to the Ethical Culturists on the Race Problem.

Dr. Felix Adler talked on the negro question before the Society for Ethical Culture in Carnegie Hall yesterday morning. He said that it was distinctly a national and not a sectional problem in that it touched on the fate and fortune of national democracy. Had we, he said at the head of the Freedman's Bureau immediately after the war a man such as Lord Cromer, said Dr. Adler, there would be no such problem to-day.

That plan failed and back of it we failed, thus demonstrating the unfitness for things constructive of our crude democracy. When that bureau failed we resorted to the device of giving the weapon of the franchise to the negro as if it were a panacea for all ills, whereas it was a two-edged sword, the result of which is patent to all.

Whatever is done in the South will affect us. If the attempt to create a permanently inferior class, permanently and not temporarily existing, is to be made, the foundations of republican liberty throughout the whole country are imperiled. History shows that the attempt to form a democracy resting on the basis of a servile population is impossible. There cannot be the definition of democracy, but believing the negro is not an equal they have excluded him.

Dr. Adler said that the reason for the prominence of the negro question to-day after a period of peace was to be found in the growth of the new South, which he likened to the rise of the third estate in Europe at the close of the Middle Ages. It was as true then, he said, as now, that whenever a class rises upward it tries to thrust backward the class immediately below it, and this was what was going on in the new South. It is the middle class, a comparatively new class in the South, Dr. Adler said, which is trying to thrust the negro backward. He continued:

In the case of the South, the two populations there are not equal, and yet they have not to be included in our common democracy. We have to stretch our democracy to a higher level and the South has to rise to this higher conception of democracy. The men of the North have been able to do this because the negro is an equal and that democracy is a compact of equals. The men of the South have been unable to do this because they have excluded the negro. Dr. Adler said, which is trying to thrust the negro backward. He continued:

Democracy is a compact of the efficient and the inefficient having for its object the lifting of the inefficient to a state of efficiency. This should be the democracy in the South. The South stands to-day at the parting of the ways. The constitutional amendments may mean the constitution of an inferior class—a danger to the nation—or may mean ultimately an attempt to bring out all that is best in the colored race by offering the franchise as a prize to those who will fit themselves to obtain it.

If I were to choose half a dozen people with whom I would feel most honored to be associated, at least one of them would be a negro. I realize his position. He is out of from his own people by his very superiority. He is cultured, refined, delicate and subtle in his social perceptions. He is out of from his own people and he is out of from white people by a barrier which even his own thoughts would not overlap. How would the world look to us in the great loneliness of this isolation?

Dr. Adler said that those negroes who had thus raised themselves should have pity upon the white man who refuses to acknowledge them as equals, and regard themselves as missionaries to the white world to help those undeveloped white people.

The Wanamaker Store

127,000 Pieces of Sterling and Silver-Plated Ware From Twenty-six of the Best-Known Factories in America

In This Annual Sale of Silver

And this count does not include a piece of our regular stocks. These quantities are doubly extraordinary, in the face of labor troubles which have curtailed production this past year. And to buy such broad and splendid stocks in the face of increased cost of labor, as well as a rise in the price of silver bullion, is most remarkable. Only because our plans were started a year ago, is a movement of the present magnitude possible.

WANAMAKER stands absolutely alone in this great January operation. Twenty-six of the most prominent factories in the United States have made us their clearing house for surplus stocks, and the patterns that are not to be continued in the coming season's catalogues.

But this is not a sale of odds and ends; for the combined gatherings make such variety as is unknown in any regular stock, from which may be selected the most complete silver or silver-plated furnishings for a private home, or a great hotel.

The Main aisle, and special counters all over the main floor, are laden with the brilliant and precious pieces. It is the greatest collection of Sterling Silver and Silver-Plated Wares that even we have ever shown. And when you realize that every piece of the hundred and twenty odd thousands, is worth from a third more, up to fully double the prices marked today, you will know why women from fifty miles around New York will be coming as fast as trains can bring them, to get a share of the greatest silverware offerings of the year.

Supplementary to the Silver Sale is an offering of fine American and English Table Cutlery at similar reductions.

This is one of the greatest classic events of WANAMAKER retailing. The detailed information follows:

New Patterns on Men's Finest To-Order Suits

Men's winter clothes begin to show structural defects about this time of the year; and new suits act as a healthy tonic upon the wardrobe.

The tonic costs less today, for men who have their clothes made to measure, than at any time so far this winter.

We have taken, without exceptions, all of our fine suit patterns, that have been $30 to $55 a suit, and marked them unreservedly to your measure. They are principally stylish worsteds and smart-looking fancy chevrons; and we will make them up into single-breasted Sack Suits, of faultless style and fit, at a saving to you of $5 to $30 a suit. They are mostly in single patterns; so the earliest comers will have the broadest field to pick from.

Twenty-five Dollars a Suit

Second floor, Fourth Avenue.

A Sale of Real Laces

JOHN WANAMAKER

Formerly A. T. Stewart & Co. Broadway, Fourth Ave., 9th and 10th Sts.

GOT $6,000 JUST BEFORE HE DIED.

Gatekeeper Brennan's Suit Settled When He Was in His Last Illness.

Patrick Brennan, a Bellevue gatekeeper, who had but one arm and one leg, died at the hospital yesterday of Bright's disease. Last Thursday the Metropolitan Street Railway Company settled for $6,000 Brennan's claim for damages arising from the loss of his left leg.

Brennan was employed as elevator operator in a West Side apartment house a few years ago, when an accident to his hand resulted in blood poisoning and necessitated the amputation of his right arm at Bellevue.

Two years later in getting off a street car his left leg was crushed, and before he left Bellevue the second time, he was minus the leg. Assistant Superintendent Rickard then put him in charge of the hospital gate at Twenty-seventh Street and First Avenue. He sued the street car company for damages and got a verdict of $12,000. The case was then appealed, and it was not until Brennan was on his deathbed at the hospital that a settlement was made.
